Superintendent Stuart Discusses School Building Plans.

Criticises the Structure in Course of Erection at South Carolina Avenue and Second Street-A Radical Departure From the Standard Type. Points Out Objectionable Features.

In reply to the request of the Enginee Commissioner, A. P. Stuart, Superintendent of Schools, has submitted his views with reference to the plans of new school buildings now awaiting acceptance by the Commissioners. Mr. Stuart says that for school houses designed for the occupancy of large numbers of children there is a sonventional ground plan, in which the arrangement and size of rooms and the location and size of exits are determined largely with reference to a safe, easy, and orderly handling of large bodies of children. Such a ground plan, he says, has the sanction of long usage, and is approved by the experience of principals and teachers. He informs the Commissioners that this plan contemplates school rooms large enough to comfortably place forty-eight to fifty desks and chairs, with ample aisles and with spaces in front and rear sufficient to provide a safe passageway for exit at all times. Continuing, Mr. Stuart says:

"There should be ample entrances and exits for boys and girls on opposite sides of large numbers of children there is a exits for boys and girls on opposite sides exits for boys and girls on opposite sides of the buildings, with stairways leading directly from the main floor. The rooms should receive light from both sides—that is to say, they should be corner rooms. If possible to avoid it, no room should be lighted from one side only. A compart son of what are known as 'inside rooms' at the Franklin or Jefferson schools with the 'corner rooms' in the same buildings is invited. The objection to the room with windows on one side only is found, with windows on one side only is found, not alone in a bad distribution of light, but such rooms are warmer in summer and more difficult to ventilate at all times. "The school building now in course of instruction at South Carolina Avenue and and Street southeast is a radical departsecond Street southeast is a radical depar-tre from the type ground plan, having n apposite entrances for boys and girls. It difficult to see how 400 children can be afely or expeditiously handled in a school on the main floor lead to a single front door. None of the architects' plans submitted contain so glaring a fault as this although several of them do not provide the arrangements for exits that are desir-"I call attention to the fact that the real attention to the last that the schoolrooms in many of the plans submitted are too small, being only 24 feet wide. To comfortably seat forty-eight to fifty pupils rooms should be 25 to 26 feet wide and from 32 to 35 feet long. I am aware wide and from 32 to 35 feet long. I am aware that the rooms conform to the requirements of 15 feet floor surface to each pupil, but this is the minimum requirement. Which some of the architects seem to think need not be exceeded. I call attention to the ample size of school rooms in some of our older buildings: Franklin, 34 by 27 feet; Seaton School, 40 by 27 feet; Curtis School, 32.2 by 27 feet; Abbott School, 35 by 26 feet; Dennison School, 36 by 26 feet; Grant School, 36 by 26 feet, and Webster School, 33.5 by 26.2 feet.

Grant School, 36 by 26 feet, and Webster School, 33.5 by 26.2 feet.

"While it is true that it has been, and yet is, the steadfast policy of the school authorities to materially reduce the number of pupils per teacher, the reduction thus far accomplished does not warrant the planning of smaller schoolrooms, for many reasons, chief among which are the need of room for bookcases, number tables, and other appliances not formerly found in such abundance as at present, and the space required for physical exercises now in daily practice in all our schools, demanding wider aisles and larger floor space. r floor space.
"I suggest that in future plans for schoo houses inside blinds be omitted, as ex-gensive and practically useless, substi-tuting a window shade over ground-glas-windows. Also, that the blackboard ledge shall never be more than two and a hal feet from the floor."

The letter of Prof. Stuart was submitted to the Commissioners through Richard Kingsman, Chairman of the Committee on Buildings, Repairs, and Sanitation of the School Board, who added the recommendation that, if practicable, all water closets be placed outside the school buildings in suitable anneyes, and that as a safeguard suitable annexes, and that, as a safeguar against possible contagion, the clothing of pupils in cloakrooms be separated by par-titions, projecting far enough from the

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

The marriage of Miss Mellie Goldthwaite Carter, daughter of Capt, and Mrs. Robert Goldthwaite Carter, and Mr. August Hector von Bayer, took place at 10 o'clock this morning at the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Ross Fishburn, pastor of the church. The bride was escorted into the church by Captain Carter who gave his daughter in marriage. She was attired for traveling in a stylish gown of blue venetian cloth, the bolero jacket showing a vest wrought in Perian colors and gold. Her hat was of blue velvet with pompoms of black chiffon. Her flowers were white chrysanthemums. Her only attendant was Miss Natalie Carter, a younger siser, who wore a girlishly pretty dress of soft grey wool trimmed with narrow black velvet. The flowers carried were pale pink chrysanthemums. Mr. Rudolph von Bayer, the groom's brother, acted as best man.

The ushers in attendance were Dr. John H. Hess, Mr. J. Powell Spendler, Mr. William Ronsaville, and Mr. Charles H.

spending to the American eighteen size. But two of these watches have ever been constructed. One was purchased direct from the workshop of the firm, to be added to the magnificent watch collection of Δ . Ponti, the celebrated amateur, of Milan, Italy. This watch, which has a perpetual calendar indicating the days of the month, the days of the week, and the phases of the moon, also possesses two separate small moon, also possesses two separate small dials, upon which are shown automatical-ly for a given latitude the time of the rising of the sun and the time of its setting ing of the sun and the time of its setting. The difficulty overcome here was great, but what comprises the merit of the piece is that, in connection with the minute hand, which shows the mean time (the time we use), it carries another hand which indicates the sun's time (the true time). This hand, moving from the centre as do the hands showing the mean time, constantly travels with them and automatically places itself each day at midigat in the position it should occupy in fidence. The Man With the Satchel.

(From the Chicago News.)

He was apparently an old man, wore large spectacles, and carried a small satchel. Across the satchel was labeled: "Prof. Redd, Chicago." He entered the waiting room of a suburban station and deposited the satchel carelessly near the ice cooler. Suddenly those near saw the satchel fall and heard the sharp tinkle of breaking glass. The old man picked up the glass and muttered exclamations of distress.

"To think I brought them all the way from Brazil," he said.

"What were they?" enquired some one in the sympathetic crowd.

"Germs!"

"Bacteria of a strange Brazilian fever."

"Bacteria of a strange Brazilian fever.

"Quick, man, crush them with your foot!"
"I can't, sir. They are now floating around in the air."
There was a moment of horror. Then ther was a rush and a little later the old man was the only occupant of the waiting room A window was raised from the outside.
"Just let them out casy, Pete," cautioned a voice.

And the bogus professor obeyed. Satchels, grips, and cases went through the window. After he had finished collecting, the professor followed the booty. His false beard fell back in the room, but he did not attempt to reclaim it. The arrival of their train prompted those outside to venture in for their baggage. It had vanished and the black beard told the tale.
